PROTESTS AGAINST SAN PABLO PAVING OVERRULED AIMEE AND 'MA' SETTLE ROW

Vigorous Fight On Key System Policy Is Planned By City

COUNCIL INVESTIGATION OF AVENUE
BRINGS DECISION TO PROCEED WITH CENTER PAVING

Protests against the improvement of the center strip of San Pablo avenue were overruled by the council at its meeting last evening, and bids for the work were ordered to be submitted in two weeks.

Whether or not the contract will be awarded depends on the decision of the railroad commission in the Key System Transit case in which the traction company is asking for the abandonment of its Twenty-third and Grand Canyon line and its Sixth street line.

In this connection a resolution was adopted by the council employing Attorney T. H. DeLap to assist City Attorney T. W. Carlson in fighting the abandonment case, when it will be heard at the city hall on the morning of August 16th.

Residents Protest

Many people appeared at the council meeting and asked that the work be postponed or that some other class of pavement be used, or that the center strip in the center be patched up in some manner, as the cost of the proposed work would be oppressive.

Council Investigates

Councilman W. W. Scott, the chairman of the street committee, told the protestants that the members of the council had gone over the proposed work last Wednesday and after making an investigation, had come to the agreement that the only thing to do was to pave the center strip, with the same class of pavement that is now being put down on the east and west sides of the avenue. He stated the paving matter would be the attention of the railroad commission in the "abandonment" case, and if a favorable decision was rendered by the commission the proposed work would not proceed, but the street car company would have to do the work. If the decision was against the city, the paving work would have to go on, and the council would award a contract.

County Health Reported Good By Dr. Blake

Submitting his last report after a dozen years service as Contra Costa's health officer, Dr. C. R. Blake of Richmond, yesterday informed the board of supervisors that he is "turning over his department without a single quarantine case in the county, which has a perfectly clean bill of health."

The duties of Dr. Blake's office is to be assumed by a department of health, recently ordered organized by the supervisors, and which will secure financial aid from and be under the administrative direction of the Rockefeller Foundation and the California Board of Health.

Fire Hydrants Are Ordered Installed

On the recommendation of councilman J. N. Hartnett, chairman of the fire committee the council last evening ordered fire hydrants installed along San Pablo avenue at the following corners, Macdonald, Nevin, Roosevelt, Solano, Garvin and Andrade avenues.

The water company is installing a new main along the avenue, and Hartnett thought it would be much more economical to have the work done at this particular time, and while the street is torn up.

SPUR TO FORD PLANT GRANTED SANTA FE LINE

Preparation To Handle
Big Freight Traffic
Seen In Move

According to a permit for a spur track granted, the Atchafalaya and Santa Fe railroad by the council last evening, that railroad is preparing to secure some of the vast freight business that will come here as the result of the new Ford factory that is to be built.

The permit granted was along Eighth street, across Dock street and down Tenth street, where it will connect on to the proposed line of the Southern Pacific that will enter the Ford property. The permit provides that any other road may use the track by paying its share of the cost, and also stipulates that the railroad must pave the street between its rails and two feet on the outside of each.

"Goat" Problem Butts Right In Council Meeting

"Goats" occupied the attention of the council for a short time last evening. Albino Slongo of 4127 Ohio street protested against the poundmaster taking up a goat of his that had slipped the chain from a picket. Slongo even intimated that Poundmaster Frank Meader had turned the animal loose so that he could pick it up and thereby get a $2 fee. The protestant said he had demanded the return of the goat but had been refused, but he thought the poundmaster should be compelled to at least deliver up the chain attached to the goat.

The matter was disposed of by the chief of police being instructed to investigate the complaint.

Plans Evolved For Intensive Campaign For Harbor Bonds

Bureau Of Speakers To Bring Message Before
Richmond Groups

An informative and intensive campaign by which all the people of Richmond will be fully advised on the question of the harbor bonds issue will be conducted during the next three weeks.

The campaign committee meeting in their headquarters at Hotel Carguinez last night worked late evolving a plan for carrying the message to the voters.

A bureau of speakers will be formed whose duties will take them before business, church, civic and fraternal groups. Speakers with a flair for platform oratory and a quick grasp of essentials will be chosen among the men and women.

A mass meeting, preceded by a big parade wherein slogans will be a prominent part, is going to be an interesting feature of the final week of the campaign.

Invitations are being extended to Congressmen Charles P. Curry, known as the friend of Richmond's harbor, and to Congressman Albert Carter, of Oakland, member of the powerful Rivers and Harbors Committee of the United States Congress, to come and bring messages on marine development. These national legislators know the subject of ports and harbors.

WHEN THIEVES FALL OUT

When Thieves Fall Out—that is when the honest human being learns something of the queer kinds in the twisted minds of criminals.

When Mrs. Jesse Livermore picked Arthur Barry out of the line-up a short time ago as the man who participated in the robbery of her home she declared him quite charming. No doubt she will say the same when she comes face to face with Boston Billy.

Yet these two former partners in crime are not the least bit charming to each other.

Each is trying to pin the million-dollar jewel robberies upon the other. Each is trying desperately hard to send the other to the death chair in connection with the murder of a Connecticut policeman.

Two reasons have been advanced by Arthur Barry for his squealing against Boston Billy.

One was the fact that Boston Billy did not share equitably with him all the loot they acquired during their evening peregrinations through the homes of the wealthy.

The other was that Boston Billy "didn't do right by the girl" of Arthur Barry while the latter was doing time.

Here are two men who have no respect for property—yet are stirred to violate all the codes of honor among thieves—because one cheats the other out of a little cash and carry.

Here are two men whose respect for womanhood is notably on the debit side, yet one feels keenly when the other takes his girl away.

Apparently they believe that what is theirs is their own solely and exclusively. The sense of possession and personal property is deeply ingrained in them—as far as they themselves are concerned—as it is in the average law-abiding individual.

What strange deformity of the mind is it that permits them to apply one law to themselves yet deny it to the other?

It is as much a problem for psychiatrists as for wardens and executioners.

Wonder what the flying fish thinks when he sees those airplanes zipping over the briny deep?

Those on the inside say congress wants relief from the farmers, quite as badly as the farmers want relief from congress.

Evidently Britannia is a little loath to give up that age-long job of mistress of the seas.

The law of Gravitation seems to have overlooked the cost of living.

Speaking of two gallon hats its a wonder somebody hasn't started a fad for two gallon hip pockets.

CUTEST THING BABY EVER SAID

Our little granddaughter, 3 1/2 years old, visited us on Sunday afternoon. She is a little like a boy and doesn't care to be petted. Recently on one of her visits, while she was sitting on the sofa, I grabbed her and gave her a regular bear's hug. When we came out of the clutch she looked at me and said, "You are a fresh kid, grandpa."

What was the cutest thing your baby said? Send it to the "Baby Editor."

The Smartest Thing My Dog Ever Did

While spending several days with us here on the farm, the year-old girl of the family was missed one of our dogs. Her mother had gone to town and I began to frantically search for the little creature. Finally I heard the barking of our Scotch collie down in the pasture. There I found the little girl completely surrounded by a herd of cattle. The collie was close to her, circling around and once pointed upward, warding off the herd and barking terrifically. Had it not been for the faithful protection of the dog, no doubt the child would have been injured or trampled to death.

JACK BAKER

Of course, your dog does smart things. Tell the "Dog Editor."

AMERICANS USING MORE VEGETABLES

The American public is consuming nearly twice as many vegetables and fruits as it did ten years ago, states Barron's, the National Financial Weekly. An editorial in the July 4 issue of Barron's reads: "Taking the years from 1917 to 1919, inclusive, the average rail shipments of the sixteen most important fruits and vegetables worked out at 478,540 carloads. For the years 1924 to 1926, inclusive, the railroads hauled an annual average of 848,099 carloads, which was an increase of 77 per cent. If we add to this increase in consumption facilitated by the motor truck, a short haul of which the actual figures are not available, the double consumption seems demonstrable.

"This is something which affects the whole country," continues Barron's, "for the city of Chicago in 1925 consumed white potatoes from no less than thirty-seven states. Probably that would not be true of New York, which occupies no such central position. It is hysterically asserted that the tomato turned red because it saw the salad dressing, but its nearest friend, the lettuce, has no cause to blush. In the ten years under discussion its consumption, measured by the freight the railroads handled, increased 40 per cent. Grapefruit came into popular consumption, and the increase there was 200 per cent. White and sweet potatoes, apples, lemons, and to some extent oranges are not regarded as 'perishables' in railroad usage, to the same extent as strawberries or grapes, and the increase in the latter was less.

"Remember that with this startling change of diet the population of the United States increased only 14 per cent. in the same period.

How To EARN MONEY at HOME.

By Sara Spence

Before my marriage I was secretary to the president of a large concern in New York. I became quite an expert at letter writing and most of the correspondence was turned over to me.

Now I am living in a town of about 10,000. As my husband has been ill for some time I find it necessary to earn some extra money, although I do not wish to take a job which keeps me away from home all day. There is no public stenographer here and it has occurred to me here I might turn my talents for letter writing into money. What do you think about such a plan?

GRACE P.

I think the possibilities for earning money in this way are splendid. In almost every town there are dozens of business men who require letter writing of various kinds. There are collection letters, sales letters, advertisements and general letters to be written. Then, too, professional men, doctors, lawyers, dentists, etc., may have correspondence of briefs to be cared for and lack the time to do this writing. All of this means an opportunity for the capable letter writer to earn a goodly income, even though

Mrs. Sarah Spence will answer all questions on "How To Earn Money at Home." Address her care of this paper.

What Your FACE TELLS

©c. 1927- by Betty Morrison PSYD.

It is easy to tell by this head and face the type of mind within, for the character of his predominant thought is written plainly.

Observe the helpful of his forehead and the distance from the ear to the top of his head. This indicates an idealistic trend of mind, one that sees the beautiful in all and all in the beautiful, and permits no bitterness to prevail in his heart. He is very observing, quick to think and act, and expresses himself in a pleasant way, farcely and well.

He is extremely orderly in his habits and manner, and ever seeking self-improvement. He never wastes his time in idle talk or gossip. Self-respect is greater to him than the biggest bank account.

This man is ever earnest, inspired, and will have a strong incentive to be a preacher of the Gospel.

He offers an outstretched hand to all with an optimistic smile in his heart, and is kind, tender and affectionate to man and animals. All lives are enriched by his kind words and helpful deeds. He is a lamp at his brother's feet, ever ready to light his rugged path.

He is a deep thinker, his mind is eager for expression and his hopes are ever hitched to a star.

FEEL AND LACE ON HATS

The woman who likes felt hats for all round season wear, but who feels the urge of summery lace models, may combine felt and lace and find herself just a step or two ahead of millinery styles.

For many of the very smartest of imported hats combine felt and lace in one way or another. For instance, there's the mantilla idea in millinery. This is a black felt sailor trimmed with black mantilla lace which hangs over the brim about the face in a very fascinating manner. The brim is slightly under medium width.

Vigorous Health

I have pressure in the forehead, spots before the eyes, inflammation of the eyelids and distressing sounds in the ears. Sinuses are not infected. Please advise.

ROWENA.

The trouble would seem to be a general catarrhal condition, even though the sinuses have so far escaped. Catarrh of the nose, ear, eye, or throat, may be more or less extensive, but it always extends to the eyes, or vice versa. Causes being the same, the same general treatment applies. The usual measures by natural methods would be an orange diet for up to seven days, followed by a largely raw fruit and vegetable diet, deep breathing of fresh air, bath and dry friction baths, cool baths, antiseptic eye baths, and general exercise. Tobacco must not be used.

Have been told that swinging Indian clubs is the best way to strengthen round shoulders. Is this true?

J. A. G.

Swinging Indian clubs is an excellent way of correcting round shoulders. However, any exercise which develops the back muscles will be effective if combined with care to observe proper posture and to maintain a confident, courageous mental attitude.

When a Man Loves

By ALICE LUTHE MILLS

Copyright 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

John Barrymore in "WHEN A MAN LOVES" is a Warner Bros. Picture.

SYNOPSIS

Fabien, good and handsome, is the youth of France. He is a priest, but secretly, he loves Manon. Manon is a beautiful, whose rascally brother, realizing her worldly value, hinders her from going to Paris, where they wander into a boarding house and, in a great and sacred love, live happily together, though poor. While Fabien is out, Manon's brother comes and hinders her from going with him. He changes her farwell note, so that it is cruel and final. Fabien returns.

In answer to Fabien's frantic call, Marie, the maid, appeared, immediately, on the landing below, and came up with a twisted, mocking smile on her face. Marie rejoined in Fabien's anguish.

"Where is Manon?" Fabien's face was white, his eyes bloodshot.

"Gone, likely with the rich gentleman who called for her." Marie's eyes were crafty.

"You lie!" came from Fabien, through set jaw.

His face was rigid and, Marie, tucked out of reach from upraised arms that threatened to strike her to the floor.

Gradually Fabien's awful rage abated, leaving him weak and dazed. He was so pitifully young and deeply in love with Manon that Marie's implication had made him see red. Still he dared not recall the night of that deed. It seemed impossible to Fabien that Manon had been unfaithful. He adored her, and she had never given sufficient proof of her love. She had hardly been out of his sight since their arrival in Paris, how could she know another man? In a flash Fabien was convinced that the Comte had discovered Manon's whereabouts and forced her to go away with him. Even this was a deathblow, because if true her fate would be unalterable.

Fabien's mind was so much more distressed than ever. What a cruel message for Manon to leave! There was no doubt about it being her own writing. Apparently she had grown tired of him and had decided to leave him. Yet, the reality of her fate remained to haunt him. Fabien paced the floor as though he had no room.

He tossed the silver chain on the table beside his slipper buckles. What a celebration to end their first week of love together!

Unable to endure the solitary loneliness of their once happy abode, Fabien stole from the room and slammed the door.

The love nest was deserted.

Would the world prove a kind place for the young ones who had gone forth so poorly prepared to meet the adventure and problems that awaited them?

Only time could tell!

CHAPTER IX

When Lescant finally succeeded in getting Manon out of the pension he welcomed the sight of a coach and quickly shoved her within its seclusion as Fabien passed by. It was a narrow escape. Besides Manon's protestations and tears were embarrassing and he did not want to attract attention. Also, he had to prepare her mind for what was to follow and he could not do it walking along the street.

"How silly to regret leaving a home like that! Dry your eyes and be ready to see the beautiful place I am taking you to. I have come into a little money and am living so handsomely that I want my little sister to share it with me." Lescant spoke consolingly, but he did not dare explain that the handsome home he referred to was the Comte's quarters and the money had been advanced by the Comte's arm went over Manon's shoulder and around her waist.

Manon's arm went over Manon's shoulder, down her back and around her waist as he stepped closer.

With a heartrending cry Manon pulled away and retreated to a far corner of the room.

The arrival of Lescant, attracted by her screams, only added to her hysteria. "You have told terrible lies to get me here. You are beasts both of you! My own brother has tricked me!" Manon had went up to her eyes, to wipe away the blinding tears, and when she took them away she saw the Comte approaching, nearer and nearer, with that same terrible devouring expression on his face.

"Let me alone!" she cried pleadingly.

"Why should I? Don't you know that I have paid for you?" The Comte watched her greedily as he advanced.

Unable to stand the proximity of either man for another moment, Manon dodged away from the Comte and picking up her skirts ran out onto the balcony. With a moment's hesitation she jumped over the low railing and landed on the lawn. Her only plan was to return to the comfort and happiness of Fabien's arms.

It was dark night time when Manon reached the pension. She was being pursued and was prompted a cautious trip along unfrequented streets, so that when she reached their attic room and opened the door she almost collapsed with fatigue and anxiety.

A great flood of moonlight coming in through the dormer window showed Manon that Fabien was not waiting for her. She looked about hopelessly and called his name again and again.

Aroused from a long quiet sleep by the sound of her mistress's voice, Fabien climbed out of her basket and demanded, "Where is Manon?"

He gathered the little pet in her arms.

Sick at heart over Manon's departure, Fabien walked the streets. Finally he was drawn back to the pension in the hope that she had returned. But looking up he saw their little windows all dark.

Should he go up there and wait for her? He started for the door, then stopped. It would be hopeless and a waste of time, besides he could not endure the room without her.

Fabien tragically turned away, little dreaming that at that very moment Manon was back in their love nest, calling his name, looking and longing for him with such a great need that it seems he should have known and gone to her, in spite of the desecrating darkness.

Why was it that Fate again drew the lovers near; but played with her power and their future by keeping them in cruel ignorance of each other?

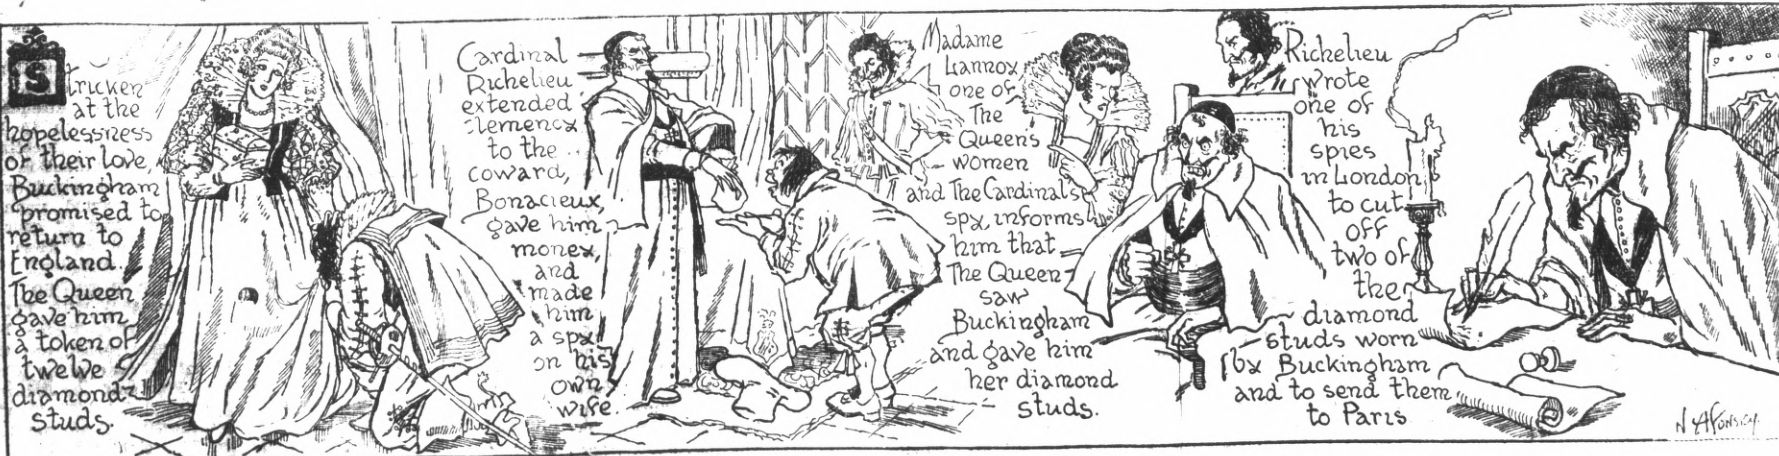

Marie was making her nightly rounds when she chanced to notice the attic door ajar, peering curiously in she was shocked to see Manon.

"What you doing back here?" she asked.

"Oh, Marie, where is Fabien—I have come back to him."

'SORROWS OF SATAN' NOW AT RICHMOND

You'll be sorry if you miss "Sorrows of Satan," D. W. Griffith's latest Paramount picture which opened at the Richmond Theatre last evening should be seen by each and every moviegoer, because:

It advances the technique of motion picture direction in one tremendous leap and places the film miles ahead of others. Once more Griffith proves himself the Great Maestro. Because—

Pantomime is placed on a higher level than ever before. Adolphe Menjou as a modern Satan leaves nothing to be desired. Ricardo Cortez proves himself an actor of depth and feeling. Carol Dempster is superb and Lya De Putti, making her first American appearance, carves a niche for herself in the hearts of American film fans. And because—

Marie Corelli's widely read novel makes good picture material. "Sorrows of Satan" tells the story of Lucifer, thrown from Heaven with the promise of an hour of bliss within the Gates of Paradise for each soul which resists him.

We are then introduced to Geoffrey Tempest, a struggling, idealistic young writer and his dance, Mavis Claire. Both temporarily in the throes of despair, have great hope for the future due to the contemplated publishing of Geoffrey's novel. His publisher turns it down.

Prince Lucio de Rumanze approaches Tempest and informs him that he has fallen heir to a huge fortune. Lured by the man's magnetic personality, Geoffrey soon forgets Mavis in his new life of luxury, and makes love to Lady Sybil, daughter of an impoverished nobleman. Attracted by the youth's money, Sybil marries him.

Too late, he realizes that his marriage has been a terrible blunder. Other film features include "The Fourth Alarm," an Our Gang Comedy; "Topics of the Day"; and "Aesop's Fables."

Daughters Of St. George Register At Carquinez

A large number of the delegates to the state convention of the daughters of St. George are staying at the Hotel Carquinez for the three day session. The following have registered from San Jose: Elizabeth L. Collier, L. P. Scott, Julia Murray, E. Stuchellow, Jane S. Pascoe, Cora Drew, Edith D. Reed, Annie Fisher and Clara E. Carter.

The delegates registered from San Francisco are: Rita G. Woods, Mrs. E. Burchell, Mrs. A. Musgrave, Mrs. Henrietta Davy, Mrs. Albert Lane, Mrs. M. Foder, Mrs. B. Litta, Mrs. S. Robinson, Mrs. M. Eliaott, Mrs. C. Wild and Miss A. C. Wild, Mrs. F. Rogers, Miss A. E. Field and Mrs. A. Field, Mrs. E. Ward, Mrs. Gertrude Muhler, and Mrs. P. Stapleton. Delegates from Fresno were: Mrs. Arthur Bennett, and Miss Martha Zimmerman.

Other arrivals were C. S. Myrick, Oakland; E. Hurd Yuba City, and J. W. Moore and wife of San Francisco.

ECLIPSE LODGE CONFERS SECOND DEGREE AT MEET

The second degree was conferred by the Eclipse lodge of Odd Fellows last night with H. J. Warrington in charge of the work. It was announced that the initiatory degree would be conferred by the lodge next Monday night and a week from that time the second degree would also be conferred.

Many of the members of the lodge attended the picnic of the Odd Fellows at Franklin Canyon park last Sunday. A ball game was played after the barbecue with the Crockett Odd Fellows team. Crockett won 11-9.

Eclipse lodge will go to Crockett August 12, when the Grand Master will visit this district. All Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are invited to attend. District Deputy Grand Master, George T. Stanley is arranging for the reception of the grand master.

'BARBED WIRE' STELLAR FILM AT CALIFORNIA

Cast in a role that displays to the highest advantage her talent as a great emotional actress, Pola Negri is to be seen at the California Theatre where her latest Paramount starring vehicle "Barbed Wire," opened last night.

"Barbed Wire" is undoubtedly one of the most unusual motion pictures to come out of the way, since it deals with an angle of the great conflict hitherto untouched by motion picture producers. Life behind the battle lines. It was adapted from H. H. Caine's novel, "The Woman of Knockaloe," considered in many critical circles as the war's greatest novel.

Miss Negri in the role of Mona, a Normandy farm girl, who is irresistibly attracted to and forced to love a war-time German prisoner, reaches the sublime heights of her dramatic art. The opening scenes in their sheer beauty are reminiscent of Corot. The Normandy countryside bathed in soft sunlight with the happy bustle of the harvest are of a quiet poignancy. And then into the idyll breaks the roll of drums. War has been declared and mobilization is ordered. But we are taken only for a few brief flashes to the front, for the picture concerns itself with the life of the people behind the lines. This in itself is something more than a refreshing angle. Mona's dreams of feeding the soldiers of France of which her brother now is one, are shattered when the military authorities designate her father's farm to be used as a prison camp. Huge yards are marked out in barbed wire and while Mona looks on rebelliously, the immigration of the prisoners starts. She is imbued with a fierce race hatred which is fanned to its utmost when news comes of her brother's death at the front.

Miss Negri displays all the subtleties of acting that have made her famous. Her transition from the naive farm girl to the mature woman with the entire responsibility of the farm on her shoulders is particularly fine and convincing. The struggle between her all-embracing hatred of the entire German race, and her particular love for the German prisoner Oskar is shown with admirable restraint.

Clyde Brook, as Oskar, and Elmer Hanson as the brother, offer two very remarkable characterizations. Claude Gillingwater as the father, and Gustav von Seyffitz as the neighbor are not to be overlooked. The comedy touches are in the capable hands of Clyde Cook, erstwhile Ziegfeld Follies funster. Other features include the third chapter of "Melting Millions," "Variety," and "Topics of the Day."

HEART TROUBLE

Marvelously Relieved

While visiting her daughter here in Oakland, Mrs. W. H. Morton of Stockton was in such great pain due to Heart Trouble that it affected her left hand. She could neither walk nor rest with the slightest comfort. All the physicians whom she consulted expressed the opinion that she had not more than ten days to live. She truly seemed to be at the point of death when she took her first package of the Fong Wan Herbs. It was cooked for her at home and that night she had the first rest after many weeks of terrible suffering. After four weeks of the Fong Wan Herb Treatment, she was able to return to her home in Stockton. From that city she has sent the following testimonial to the Fong Wan Herb Co.:

OWES HER LIFE TO FONG WAN HERBS
Stockton, Cal., March 21, 1927.
To the Fong Wan Herb Co.: I have been a sufferer with vascular trouble of the heart for some time. I became so ill that many doctors, who were many, gave me but a week or ten days to live.

I decided to try the Fong Wan Herb Co. and to the amazement of all who attended me, I was able to walk into their office after taking the Herbs one week. I have now taken them four weeks and I not only have a good heart but have also been helped in other ailments.

I cannot speak too highly of the Fong Wan Herbs as I owe my life to them. I am very grateful to Fong Wan for his kindness.

P. G. AND E. CO. ONE THIRD OF MOVES OFFICES 'WOODED LOTS' TO 6TH STREET REPORTED SOLD

With the merging of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and the Western States Gas and Electric Co., effective with the opening of business yesterday, all affairs will be henceforth transacted at 319 Sixth street, the former city office of the Western States Company. Patrons will now be able to transact both their gas and electric business at the one address instead of the former inconvenience of two places. The Tenth street and Nevin avenue office, the former headquarters of the P. G. and E. has been abandoned with the consolidation of the two companies.

Little change in the office personnel of the two companies has been made. George N. Rooker, former manager of the Western States company has been promoted to district manager of the P. G. and E. of Contra Costa and Jesse C. Hitchcock, formerly Richmond manager of the gas office of the P. G. and E. is now Richmond manager of both gas and electric division.

Huge Holstery Is Planned

Can't Sell Temple Referring to Angelus temple, Mrs. Kennedy said:

"It can't be sold, there is a deed of trust." The incident of "The Little Blue Trunk" which, filled with feminine garments, was seized in the east as the property of Kenneth G. Orniston, radio man, at the time of the investigation into the evangelist's disappearance was recalled today.

"Trunk" Recalled "Aimee spoke last night about buying me a trunk full of negligees and furs and sending me away somewhere," Mrs. Kennedy said. "If I were she I would certainly be very carefully about what I said about trunks."

FIVE HUNDRED LOTS OFFERED TO HOMELOVER

(Continued From Page 1.) owner has an undivided interest. Mineral springs abound on the property—there are more mineral springs in Lake county than in all Europe—and the pure and wholesome spring water is piped to every lot. The property is covered with large oaks, manzanitas and pines.

Clellake Oaks is readily accessible, all roads leading to it being under state supervision and the Lake Tahoe-Ukiah highway running through the property. The lake is a wonderful opportunity for boating and there are many cozy and attractive beaches for the children. The temperature of the waters is about the same as that of Waikiki beach at Honolulu in the summer. In the winter the temperature is around 57 degrees.

LOCATION IDEAL Within a short drive there is warm water swimming, while from within 20 to 50 miles are Slinger Springs, Adams Springs, Glenbrook, Geysers, Harbin Springs, Bartlett Springs, Blue Lakes, Russian River resorts, Willbur Springs and many others. At Clellake Oaks cool summer breezes blow all summer long. There is no fog.

Clellake Oaks offers boating, swimming, fishing, surf-board riding, every vacation delight and convenience. Population within a 100-mile radius of Clellake Oaks is 1,250,000, and for other reasons the property is a wise investment.

There are more than 200 buildings on the property now. The hotel accommodates 75 persons and there are two restaurants, a pool hall, new dance pavilion at the edge of the lake, grocery store, drug store and lumber company.

GUARANTEE GIVEN The property is so desirable from an investment standpoint that purchasers are given a guarantee of their money back in 30 days if they are not satisfied. A blanket title insurance policy assures full value. There are no interest charges and no taxes this year.

Prices at present are extraordinarily low and terms are such that the lots are within the reach of all. Call at the office of H. W. Pulse, 915 Macdonald avenue, resident agent, or the RECORD-HERALD for further information.

WAGE SCALE AT NEW SCHOOL IS CAUSE OF ROW

(Continued From Page 1.) worth" and that the scale range from $7.50 to $9 per day is in accordance with the worth of the man.

No action in the controversy will be taken by the Carpenters' union, according to Martin O. Hauge, business agent. Intervention by the union occurs only where union men are employed and concerned.

There are forty men employed on the job, according to Steele, who declared that the men live in the neighborhood and that they began the work with a clear understanding of the wage scale.

An investigation of the situation will be made by L. C. Dexter, secretary of the Richmond Builders exchange. It is said that in figuring the costs of the job, Richmond contractors based their wage scale on the $9 per day rate. The bid of Harnah would have therefore been considerably lower if based on a lower wage scale.

Before any action can be taken by the builders' exchange, a complaint on the wage scale must be lodged with them. President E. H. Higgins and Secretary Dexter declare that they would welcome a complaint from any man who is not receiving the wage scale agreed upon in the Bay region.

Such complaints will be lodged with the industrial commission. It is said that Hannah as a member of the San Francisco Builders exchange has agreed to pay the scale adopted.

Purviance Wins In Battle With Death

After two months of waging a slow winning fight against death, Harold Purviance, a Richmond restaurant operator, was able yesterday to be up for the first time since May 19, when he contracted pneumonia. He was allowed to sit in a chair for a short period.

This condition became so critical four days after he became ill that the inhalator of the Richmond fire department was used to administer oxygen to keep him alive. For more than 200 hours, members of the fire department under the direction of Fire Chief W. P. Cooper worked constantly with the inhalator. Later an operation was decided upon to remove an abscess from the lungs. He began to recover his strength after another relapse and has been improving slowly since. Purviance has been attended by a corps of medical experts headed by his personal physician, Dr. Waldo Bumgarner.

GAS TAX GIVES OAKLAND MAN $21,000,000 TOIS DROWNED IN CONTRA COSTA INNER HARBOR

Apportionment of $6,486,529.77 in State motor vehicle funds collected during the first six months of 1927 was announced by A. R. Heron, director of the State Department of Finance. The money will be used for repair and maintenance of highways, half of it going to the State and half to the counties.

Contra Costa receives a net apportionment of $2,176,263 after $8,700 is reserved for traffic officers salaries.

While the apportionment to the counties, based on the number of registered motor vehicles, totals $2,061,850.98, a sum held out to pay the salaries of traffic officers reduces the counties' share to $2,424,678.63.

Heron announced that the salaries of traffic officers for the six months totaled $302,348.17 but an additional sum of $334,822.15 is being reserved for salaries during the last six months of the year.

The apportionment is based on the highest registrations in the history of the State, the totals being as follows: Passenger cars, 1,285,894; solid trucks, 36,225; pneumatic trucks, 162,604; motor cycles, 8,122; and trailers, 29,570.

One-third of all the automobiles in California are registered in Los Angeles county, which will receive the largest share of the apportionment of motor vehicle fees. The southern county's share is $1,215,892.76. San Francisco is second with an allotment of $287,721.47.

ARTERY MEET ON THURSDAY

Roughly the proposed industrial highway will leave the State Highway at the foot of Tank Farm Hill, connect with Garrard Boulevard extension at Tenth St., follow Cutting Boulevard to a point at or near the new Ford plant site, then out either Meeker or Portero avenues to Pullman avenue, thence to the county line, skirting the El Cerito hill, and connecting there with the highway is contemplated by Albany, Berkeley and Oakland.

The supervisors of Contra Costa and Alameda counties will attend the meeting Thursday night.

WIMSATT TAKEN LEASE ON STORE ROOM

A five-year lease on the store room at 271 Sixteenth street has been signed by D. Wimsatt, operator of the Richmond Rug and Mattress works. He plans the installation of modern machinery to take care of the needs of his growing business. The building is owned by Leo Persico.

Joseph A. Kopke, 22, employed in the United Dredging company's motor in the Richmond inner harbor, plunged and was drowned in 25 feet of water at the inner harbor Sunday afternoon.

It was not learned what forced Kopke into the water as there were no eye-witnesses to the accident. Harry Sundeen, 633 Sixth street, Richmond operator of the inner harbor, declared that he had entered the cabin to obtain his hat and coat preparatory to joining a party who was preparing a small boat for a trip to the shore. When Kopke returned to the deck of the boat he searched for Kopke but could find no trace of him. He told him, but received no answer.

When Kopke's hat was noticed on the surface of the water, it was more than seven hours after Kopke had fallen in the harbor before the body was recovered and turned over to Coroner Aubrey Wilson, who is investigating the circumstances of the tragedy.

Although there was a crowd of eight men working on a pipe line from the dredger to the mainland about 200 feet away from the scene of the tragedy none of the men said they saw the accident.

The dredger crew set about recovering the body immediately after the discovery of the cap. The police and fire departments were notified and with Coroner Wilson rushed to the scene to aid in the search. The fire department palmator was kept in readiness by Assistant Chief J. J. Barry and Hoseman W. P. Radford for an attempt to revive Kopke.

The body was brought to the surface forty feet from the barge, but was recovered on the final attempt to be made by the dredger before moving it in the belief that the body had drifted under the barge. No marks of violence were found on the body according to Coroner Wilson. It is believed that he dropped into the water and was unable to pull himself to safety before sinking.

Kopke who was a native of Boston, resided in Oakland for twenty years. He lived at 1097 Fifth-street and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ollie Kopke and a sister, Mrs. Hilma Alameda, 45 Eighty-seventh avenue, Oakland.

Louhead is alleged to have pursued and overtaken her. Miss Leighton walked to a house under construction, several blocks away and asked a carpenter to take her to the Berkeley police station. College city authorities communicated with the Contra Costa Sheriff's office and Deputy Sheriff J. W. Smiley was placed in charge of the investigation.

Louhead was traced through the license plates on his automobile. The type of machine he drove is uncommon, which fact greatly facilitated the search.
